It Is Never Good-bye

While many of us preferred to deny Beverly and Steve Morse's announcement of a forthcoming move from Manhattan Beach, the inevitable date and moving trucks arrived—leaving us with an unfillable vacancy in presence and quality.

The humor, commitment, experience, wisdom and love they generously shared are part of the equation which took them next door (practically) to be near devoted family members.

So it is heartening to believe that Bev and Steve have not left Manhattan Beach. The move is physical, but the interest, spirit, the grace and the outstretched hand remain.

And that it good.

Christine: the following is to be placed above the article entitled, This is Not the Time, which has Beverly's bi line:

Ed note: To reassure the many who miss their immediate local presence, Bev and Steve Morse say their move to a neighboring city does not mean diminished participation in Manhattan Beach issues. Their vested interests and unflagging sense of caring for this city continue.
